UC Irvine Medical Center understands that being a learner in the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU) as an inexperienced nurse is difficult. In the NICU it is expected that a nurse will pass through 5 levels of development during his or her nursing career. Each step builds on the previous while the learner gains clinical expertise. Wellington ICU Registrar Orientation Manual v4 2018-09 wellingtonicu.com The 24 bed unit is geographically divided into three pods: •Central pod (Bed nos. 1-7,17-18 - 9 beds) •North pod (Bed nos. 8-16 - 9 beds) •South pod (Bed nos. 19-24 - 6 beds) Each pod is managed by a specialist and RMO. Following orientation in the NICU, I began a 12-week “post-orientation pathway” that gradually advanced the acuity of my assigned patients. Additionally, at the start of every shift, I was assigned a “resource buddy.” Resource buddies were more experienced nurses that served as easily accessible sources of information.
